On S^t PAVL's Cathedrall represented by M^r DAN: KING.

Illustrious Pile, ô that my Muse,
Amphion-like, could Life infuse
Into Thy Stones, & make them dance
In Order, till They might advance
Into their ancient Seats, and rise
In Spires to re-salute the Skies.

What though 6 Worlds 7 Wonders have
In their own Rubbish found a Grave;
Consuming Time did scarce amiss,
So long as He dispens'd with This:
For whil'st HERCVLES upheld alone,
The Scar'n re-flourisht in This One.

Haile, Sacred Ruines, which remaine,
And still a Majestie retaine
Vow in your mouldring Relicks shown
GOD's speciall Presence once below:
So as both Angels might admire
The Motes of Their Own Great Quire.

Nor were it an Offence to call
Those Angels to Thy hastning Fall,
Who only can fit Poets be
To grace Thee with an Elegie,
And to bemaile a Silence there
Where Voices turn'd each Sense to Eare.

Religions Ark, a Trophy raisd
By Zeale, where GOD was rightly praisd
Cheer'd by Thy former Splendor, must
We now be blinded with Thy Dust?
Ah that Thy Lead should fall to be
A Winding Sheet to Faith, and Thee!

To view Thee once more in Repaire,
O Theater of ROYALL Care!
To re-exalt Thy glorious Name,
And wash out our Augean Shame,
A Floud should issue from our Eyes
Which might Alpheus equalize.

Time that devours the World, & brings
A Change on all inferiour Things,
May see an Age in greater Hast
Re-build Thee, then this lay'd Thee waste;
And finde a Holy Pleasure in
Such an Attonement for This Sin.

However, let Us duely mourn
To view Thee wasting to Thy Urn,
And if Time should not Thee restore,
Thou liv'st in Figure, as before,
By ONE, Who joyning Names to Things,
Shares in Renown with Other KINGS.

Threnodia Ædis Paulinæ De Seipsâ.

ASPICE Qualis eram primo perfecta Decore,
Vertice sublimi visa ferire Polum;
Culmine nec tantùm Cœlo, sed proxima Cultu,
Cœlicolæ nostros dum stupuere Choros:
Dives Opum, sancta Ara Precum, Pietatis Asylum,
Florida Pace, Fide pura, dicata DEO.

Concipe Mente meum Decus esse quale secundum
Contractum Senio cùm positura Situm;
Pyramis à Flammis cùm surgeret icta Trisulcis,
Auxiliatrices REGE ferente Manus;
Propitio Sumptu renovatâ ut Matre, minorum
Natarum Series tota Venusta foret.

Illa Ego Quæ quondàm sublimibus alta Columnis,
Arcuum adornatis concamerata Tholis,
In Cœlum Spirâ cœpi tendisse stupendâ,
Atq; Ministeriis aptior esse sacris;
Indè, Vetustatis devitatura Ruinas,
Cum Mundo poteram continuâsse Dies.

Maxima Christicolæ mansissem Gloria Mundi,
Invida & in nostras Roma fuisset Opes;
Ipsa Cathedrali superâssem splendida Formâ,
PETRE, tuámq; Solo, MARCE, tuámq; Salo;
Atq; Reformatum tunc Religione Nitorem
Nactâ, Me summus concelecorâsset Honos.

Sed mihi Seditio nocuit, quæ Prodroma Lapsûs,
Sævior ac ipso Tempore, Livor atrox:
Cum sint Arma Tibi tantùm Cœlestia, PAULE,
Militis Excubijs non eget Ista Domus:
Antè Decora fui, jam Squallida tota recumbo;
Est sacer Hinnitus quò Sacer Hymnus erat!

Si Fluvio Stabulum lavit Tyrinthius Heros,
Victor Aquis, quandò Dextra negabat Opem;
Excordes Nati, cur nunc in Funere Matris
Conspicitis siccis Rudera nostra Genis?
O, si versa forent in salsum Lumina Rivum,
Elueret Sordes Rivus ut Iste meas!

Involvo Lodice mei Sacra omnia Plumbi!
Urna priùs Magnis, jam rudis Urna Mihi!
Lætor at æratis quod sim vicatura Figuris,
Ceu Volucris Syrijs quæ reparata Rogis,
Illius Auxilio, Qui non REX Nomine tantùm,
Sed Qui, par summis REGIBUS, edit Opus.

Quantò Ego Flebilior, tantò Præsentior audi,
Diruit, ædificat nam tua Dextra, DEUS!
TU miserere Mei, mea TU demortua Saxa,
Verus ut Amphion, mox animare potes:
Dicta Dies, Scriptis promissa fidelibus, adsit,
Cùm Favor in charæ Saxa SIONIS erit!

BENEVOLVS.

The Citty of London (as some write) had its first Rise from Brute the Grand-child of Æneas, 70 years after y^e Destruction of Troy, whence (say they) it was called Trinobant, or New Troy, so called when Cæsar entred into Britaine 54 yeares before y^e Birth of Christ. The name London derived (as some say) from Lud a British King, who enlarged it. Others from Liban-dian, or Dianas Temple because y^e chief Temple therein was dedicated to Diana, on whose Ruines S^t Paules was built by Ethelbert K. of Kent. It was walled 3 miles in compasse A^o Chri. 306 by Helen the Mother of Constantine.

In the time of H. 3^d it had six faire Gates.

The Tower builded by W. the Conquerour A^o 1078

At y^e Dissolution of Monasteries it had 17. Religious houses within the Walles, and 12 without.

The number of Churches in y^e Citty of London w^th in the Walles 99, in the Suburbs 31. Anno 1658.

This Citty hath Longitude 24^d 20. Lat: 51^d 32.
